

FRED's Website: Revamped and Relocated

Washington, DC - October 2, 2000

The Foundation for Rural Education and Development (FRED) announces the unveiling of its new updated website. FRED would like to thank KeyCreations, an OPASTCO Associate Member for donating their time and resources to designing the new site. As always, the site contains pertinent information concerning FRED events, awards, scholarships, links to other economic development sites, and archives of FRED publications.

The revamped website is located at FRED's new domain name, www.fred.org, the site can also be accessed at its old location, www.opastco.org/fred. The Foundation Board of Directors hopes the new look and location of the website will help OPASTCO members and their communities learn more about FRED and how it can help improve development and education in their communities.
